

Notes on Contributors

Victoria O. Adeniyi (ORCID: 0000-0002-9639-0132) holds a Bachelor's degree in Dramatic Arts, a Master's degree in Literature and a doctorate degree in Theatre Arts. She is a Senior Lecturer at the Department of Dramatic Arts, Obafemi Awolowo University, Nigeria. Her areas of interest include: theory and criticism, dramatic literature, theatre history, theatre management, technical theatre, and media studies.

Department of Dramatic Arts, Obafemi Awolowo University, Ile-Ife, Nigeria.
vicadeniyi2k4@yahoo.com

Anna Białkowska (ORCID: 0000-0002-4840-7198) graduated from the Jagiellonian University in Cracow in 2013 with an MA thesis on the Beat Generation authors. She is currently working on her doctoral dissertation about William S. Burroughs. She is interested in contemporary American literature, contemporary collage and postmodern novels.

Institute of English Philology, Jagiellonian University
Al. Mickiewicza 9A
31-120 Kraków, Poland
anna.bialkowska@doctoral.uj.edu.pl

Joanna Blaszcak (ORCID: 0000-0002-8332-2827) is Associate Professor at the Institute of English Studies, University of Wrocław. She received her Ph.D. in 2000 from the Humboldt-University of Berlin and Habilitation degree in 2007 from University of Potsdam. She is Head of the Center for Experimental Research on Natural Language at the University of Wrocław. She is currently leading a research group within the project Psycholinguistic Investigations into Number and Quantification in Natural Language, funded by the National Science Centre (NCN, programme OPUS 5). She is also involved in two other DAAD projects: at the Humboldt University of Berlin and at Leibniz-Zentrum für Allgemeine Sprachwissenschaft. Her scientific interests include but they are not limited to theoretical syntax (in particular minimalist syntax), processing of Negative Polarity Items, negation, indefinites, case, copula constructions, existential and possessive constructions, aspect, tense, modality, (un)ergativity, Information Structure.

Institute of English Studies, University of Wrocław
ul. Kuźnicza 22
50-138 Wrocław, Poland
joanna.blaszczak@uwr.edu.pl

Teresa Brus (ORCID: 0000-0003-2845-7195) is Associate Professor at Wrocław University, Poland. Her major fields of research include visual culture, interactions of photography and literature, subjectivity, and life writing. She teaches M.A. seminars on autobiography, electives on poetry of the 1930s, English modernism and visual and verbal portraiture. She has published extensively on various aspects of life writing and photography. She is the author of Life Writing as Self-Collecting in the 1930s: Cecil Day Lewis and Louis MacNeice (2012). Currently she is working on a book on changing meanings and uses of the face in English and Polish photo-literature of the 1920s and the 1930s.

Institute of English Studies, University of Wrocław
ul. Kuźnicza 22
50-138 Wrocław, Poland
teresa.brus@uwr.edu.pl

Anita Buczek-Zawila (ORCID: 0000-0002-4179-0219) is Assistant Professor and Lecturer of English Linguistics at Pedagogical University of Cracow, Poland. She specialises in phonetics and phonology as well as teaching the sound systems of English and Polish. Her current research is focused on interactions between the sound systems of languages in contact, at the level of the segment and above. She is also interested in the contribution of new technologies to developing language skills and to developing teaching and learning strategies. She is one of the founder-members of the ALVIS (Accessible Linguistics to Visually-Impaired Students) project at York St. John University.

Institute of Modern Languages, Pedagogical University of Cracow
ul. Karmelicka 41
31-128 Kraków, Poland
anita.buczek-zawila@up.krakow.pl

Wojciech Drag (ORCID: 0000-0002-9089-2465) is Assistant Professor at the Institute of English Studies, University of Wrocław. He is the author of Revisiting Loss: Memory, Trauma and Nostalgia in the Novels of Kazuo Ishiguro (2014) and co-editor of War and Words: Representations of Military Conflict in Literature and the Media (2015) and Spectrum of Emotions: From Love to Grief (2016). His academic interests centre on contemporary British and American literature.

Institute of English Studies, University of Wrocław
ul. Kuźnicza 22
50-138 Wrocław, Poland
wojciech.drag@uwr.edu.pl

Anna Dudek (ORCID: 0000-0003-1160-8954) is a graduate of the University of Wrocław. She completed her MA in English studies in 2015 and MSc in Economics in 2017. Her research interests in the field of linguistics include the notion of untranslatability in literary and audiovisual translation, various aspects of dialectology, theoretical linguistics, and Legal English. Anna Dudek is currently working on a doctoral thesis concerning the translation of legal documents from English to Polish.

Anna Dudek
Institute of English Studies, University of Wrocław
ul. Kuźnicza 22
50-138 Wrocław, Poland
anna.dudek.uwr@gmail.com

Piotr Gulgowski (ORCID: 0000-0002-0807-6697) is a doctoral student at the Institute of English Studies, University of Wrocław. He is a member of the Center for Experimental Research on Natural Language at the University of Wrocław working on his Ph.D. thesis on morpho-syntactic and semantic processing of grammatical number in Polish. He participates in the project Psycholinguistic Investigations into Number and Quantification in Natural Language, funded by the National Science Centre (NCN, programme OPUS 5). His main areas of interest include psycho- and neuro-linguistic models of language processing, empirical methods in language study, the interfaces of language and other cognitive systems.

Institute of English Studies, University of Wrocław
ul. Kuźnicza 22
50-138 Wrocław, Poland
piotr.gulgowski@googlemail.com

Krzysztof Hwaszcz (ORCID: 0000-0003-2136-5001) is a Ph.D. student in the Faculty of Letters at the University of Wrocław. His research focuses on the organisation of mental lexicon in the processing of compound words. His broader academic interests include syntax-semantics interface, theoretical syntax and the processing of multimorphemic words.

Institute of English Studies, University of Wrocław
ul. Kuźnicza 22
50-138 Wrocław, Poland
krzysztof.hwaszcz@gmail.com

Hanna Kędzierska (ORCID: 0000-0002-9847-1366) is currently working on her Ph.D. project concerned with the mechanisms of anticipation during the processing of foreign-accented speech. She is also participating in a DAAD project “Linguistic predictions in context: Collocations and selection from a psycholinguistic and corpus linguistic perspective” (Principal Investigators: Prof. Joanna Błaszczak, University of Wrocław, and Prof. Roland Meyer, Humboldt University of Berlin). Her research interests include psycho- and neuro-linguistics.

Institute of English Studies, University of Wrocław
ul. Kuźnicza 22
50-138 Wrocław, Poland
hanna.kedzierska@uwr.edu.pl

Dorota Klimek-Jankowska (ORCID: 0000-0003-3102-1384), Ph.D., is Assistant Professor at the Institute of English Studies, University of Wrocław. She studied linguistics at the University of Wrocław and at Utrecht University. She is currently a member of the Center for Experimental Research on Natural Language at the University of Wrocław and is working on the processing of grammatical aspect in Polish as part of the research project Psycholinguistic Investigations into Number and Quantification in Natural Language, funded by the National Science Centre (NCN, programme OPUS 5). Her main areas of interest are formal semantics, syntax-semantics interface, semantic variation (macro- and micro-parameters) and the application of experimental methods in the study of semantics and pragmatics of natural language.

Institute of English Studies, University of Wrocław
ul. Kuźnicza 22
50-138 Wrocław, Poland
dorota.klimek-jankowska@uwr.edu.pl

Hubert Kowalewski (ORCID: 0000-0002-9939-3849) is Assistant Professor at Maria Curie-Skłodowska University in Lublin. His main professional interests include cognitive linguistics, semiotics of comics, methodology of linguistics, philosophy of language, and philosophy of science (with special emphasis on scientific use of introspection and intuitions in linguistics). He is the author of Motivating the Symbolic. Towards a Cognitive Theory of the Linguistic Sign (2016) and of articles on Conceptual Blending Theory, conceptual metonymy, methodology of linguistics, and speculative fiction.

Department of English, Maria Curie-Skłodowska University
Plac Marii Curie-Skłodowskiej 5
20-031 Lublin, Poland
hubert.kowalewski@poczta.umcs.lublin.pl

Ewa Kucelman (ORCID: 0000-0003-1644-5787) is Assistant Professor at the Institute of Modern Languages, Pedagogical University of Cracow. She is the author of one monograph, Self-based Anaphora in Early Modern English (2013). Her main research interests include historical linguistics, pragmatics, discourse analysis, cohesion and coherence and the ways of building these, and most recently the evaluation of written and spoken discourse. She is currently working on an international project concerning the pragmatics of political discourse on Twitter.

Institute of Modern Languages, Pedagogical University of Cracow
ul. Karmelicka 41
31-128 Kraków, Poland
Ewa.Kucelman@up.krakow.pl

Elżbieta Litwin (ORCID: 0000-0002-0170-1875) is a director, screenwriter and film scholar with over ten years of academic research and teaching experience at Columbia University, City University of New York, School of Visual Arts in New York. She has led auteur Method workshops in New York and Los Angeles. Her films include Teeth, The Ghost and The Magician. Among her screenplays there are To the End of Time and The Other Side of the River. Her research interests include cognitive studies of performance, director-actor communication techniques, esp. the Method, and directorial semiotic tools. Elżbieta Litwin received her MFA in Film from Columbia University and her BA in English Studies from the University of Wrocław. Currently she is a Ph.D. candidate at the University of Wrocław.

Institute of English Studies, University of Wrocław
ul. Kuźnicza 22
50-138 Wrocław, Poland
elzbieta.litwin@uwr.edu.pl

Trung Nguyễn-Quang (ORCID: 0000-0002-2924-1495) is a Ph.D. candidate at the Sorbonne Nouvelle University (Paris), working under the supervision of Prof. Marc Porée (Sorbonne Nouvelle, Ecole normale supérieure, Paris) towards a thesis in English literature entitled Topologies of the Contemporary. The Notion of Spatiality in 21st Century British Fiction, with particular focus on Nadeem Aslam, Jim Crace, Will Self and Zadie Smith. He is also a lecturer at the English Department of the Sorbonne Nouvelle. His fields of research cover the contemporary novel, critical theory and political thought in contemporary fiction. His previous interests have focused on postmodernism, on the writing of the body in contemporary fiction through the works of such writers as Ian McEwan, Graham Swift and Hanif Kureishi. He is an alumnus of the Ecole normale supérieure (Lyon), and holds the agrégation d'anglais.

English Department, Sorbonne Nouvelle University — Paris 3
21 rue de l'École de médecine 75006 Paris, France
trung.nguyen-quang@sorbonnenouvelle.fr

Jacek Olesiejko (ORCID: 0000-0002-7047-2498), Ph.D., works in the Department of English Literature and Literary Linguistics at the Faculty of English, Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań. He is currently doing research into Old English poetry and prose, focusing on gender, history of emotion and eco-criticism. He is also interested in Old English biblical poetry as well as Anglo-Saxon hagiography in verse and prose.

Faculty of English, Adam Mickiewicz University
Al. Niepodległości 4
61-874 Poznań, Poland
jolesiejko@wa.amu.edu.pl

Paulina Pająk (ORCID: 0000-0001-6911-1284) is a Ph.D. candidate at the University of Wrocław and is writing a dissertation on gendered memory in Virginia Woolf's oeuvre, under the supervision of Prof. Teresa Bruś. She has obtained an MA in British Literature and an MA in Psychology from the Jagiellonian University in Kraków. Her research interests include modernist, comparative and reception studies.

Institute of English Studies, University of Wrocław
ul. Kuźnicza 22
50-138 Wrocław
paulina.pajak@uwr.edu.pl

Marla Perkins (ORCID:0000-0003-4146-9932), Ph.D., is a linguist currently engaged in independent scholarship. She received her doctorate from the State University of New York at Buffalo and is an internationally recognized scholar in discourse analysis, pragmatics, semantics, and socio-linguistics. She has taught extensively to groups and individuals of all ages. She is the originator of Nexus Theory, a descriptive theory that aims to provide linguists with tools for linguistically relevant analyses of various types of discourses. She conducts field research among the Hobongan on the island of Borneo, working toward language documentation and conservation.

Independent scholar
Ithaca, NY
dr.marla.perkins@gmail.com

Henk C. van Riemsdijk (ORCID: 0000-0003-2503-5480) was, until recently, Professor of Linguistics and head of the Models of Grammar Group at Tilburg University, The Netherlands. He is now emeritus and a free-lance linguist operating from his home in Arezzo, Italy. He is the co-founder of GLOW, the major professional organization of generative linguists in Europe. He was (from 2001 through 2013) the co-editor of the Journal of Comparative Germanic Linguistics (Springer) and of the book series Studies in Generative Grammar, Mouton de Gruyter (from 1978 through 2013). And he co-edits the Blackwell Companions to Linguistics series (Wiley-Blackwell) and the Comprehensive Grammar Resources series (Amsterdam University Press). He has written and edited around 25 books, contributed around 100 major articles and directed around 30 Ph.D. dissertations.

Professor Emeritus, Tilburg University
Villa Salmi, Loc. Stoppe d'Arca #2
52100 Arezzo (AR)
Italyvillasalmi@sorbonnenouvelle.fr

Agnieszka Romanowska-Kowalska (ORCID: 0000-0003-4659-4521) teaches history of English literature and culture. Her main field of research is literary and theatrical reception of Shakespeare in Poland and literary translation. She has published on the theatricality of Shakespeare's dramatic text, Polish poet-translators, Polish stage adaptations of Shakespeare's plays and Shakespeare's reception in Poland. She is author of Hamlet po polsku. Teatralność szekspirowskiego tekstu dramatycznego jako zagadnienie przekładoznawcze (2005), and Za głosem tłumacza. Szekspir Iwazkiewicza, Miłosza i Gałczyńskiego (2017).

Institute of English Philology, Jagiellonian University
Al. Mickiewicza 9A
31-120 Kraków, Poland
a.romanowska-kowalska@uj.edu.pl

Magdalena Sawa (ORCID: 0000-0002-0410-1832), Ph.D., is Assistant Professor at the Department of English Literature and Culture, The John Paul II Catholic University of Lublin. She is the author of a monograph entitled Ekphrasis in Modern British Fiction — a Pro-narrative Approach (2015). She explores the problems of modern British fiction, the theory of narrative and interart relations (literature and the visual arts). Her recent scholarly interests involve affect theory and Gabriel Josipovici's writing.

Department of English, The John Paul II Catholic University of Lublin
Aleje Racławickie 14
20-950 Lublin, Poland
sawka@kul.lublin.pl

Jadwiga Uchman (ORCID: 0000-0002-1274-3958) until recently held Chair of the Department of Studies in English Drama and Pre-18th Century English Literature, University of Łódź. At present she is working in PWSZ in Płock. Professor Uchman specializes in modern English Drama, especially poetic drama, the Theatre of the Absurd, T.S. Eliot, Samuel Beckett, Harold Pinter and Tom Stoppard. She has authored The Problem of Time in the Plays of Samuel Beckett. Folia Litteraria (1987), Reality, Illusion, Theatricality: A Study of Tom Stoppard (1998) and Playwrights and Directors: Samuel Beckett, Tom Stoppard and Harold Pinter (2011).

The State University of Applied Sciences in Płock
ul. Gałczyńskiego 28
09-400 Płock, Poland
jagodauchman@wp.pl

Hilary White (ORCID: 0000-0002-4316-3075) is a Ph.D. student in English Literature at the University of Manchester, working on experimental women writers in 1960s and '70s Britain, and intersections between literature and visual culture. Her thesis focuses on visual experimentation in the novels of Ann Quin, Christine Brooke-Rose and Brigid Brophy. Her current research is funded by the Arts and Humanities Research Council.

The University of Manchester
Oxford Rd
Manchester, M13 9PL, UK
hilary.white@manchester.ac.uk

Katarzyna Więkowska (ORCID: 0000-0003-3408-3695) is Assistant Professor at the Department of English, Nicolaus Copernicus University, where she teaches cultural and literary studies. She has published Spectres of Men (2014) and On Alterity (2008), and edited and co-edited a number of volumes, including The Gothic (2012) and Ex-changes: Comparative Studies in British and American Cultures (2012, with Edyta Lorek-Jezińska). Her research interests include contemporary British and American fiction, literary and cultural theory, feminist criticism, and hauntology.

Department of English, Nicolaus Copernicus University
ul. Władysława Bojarskiego 1 87-100 Toruń, Poland
klew@umk.pl

Wojciech Witkowski (ORCID: 0000-0001-8873-9819), Ph.D., is Assistant Professor at the Institute of English Studies, University of Wrocław. He is currently working on agentive and stative properties of psychological verbs in Polish as a part of the research project Comparative analysis of psychological predicates in Polish, Spanish and English, funded by National Science Centre (NCN), programme OPUS 8. He is also working on linking Polish and Princeton WordNets as a part of ongoing work within CLARIN-PL infrastructure conducted at Wrocław University of Technology. His research interests include syntax-morphology interface, corpus linguistics, application of quantitative methods in linguistics and natural language processing.

Institute of English Studies, University of Wrocław
ul. Kuźnicza 22
50-138 Wrocław, Poland
wojciech.witkowski@uwr.edu.pl

Anglica Wratislaviensia
Guidelines for Reviewers

Reviewer's name and e-mail address (for editorial office only)
Title of manuscript

For your review, please use either the evaluation form (Part One) or write your review (Part Two).

Part One

Please use the following scale: A — very good; B — good; C — average; D — poor

Appropriateness of the title
Consistency between the abstract and the content of the article
Clarity of presentation
Soundness of argument and discussion
Depth of research
Contribution to the field
Appropriateness of methodology (if applicable)
Relevance and appropriateness of the sources
Accuracy of documentation (if applicable, accuracy of diagram/figure/table captions)
Quality of language and appropriateness of research style
Critical remarks, points for improvement

Recommendation: The paper is	acceptable for publication without revisions
	acceptable for publication with minor revisions (please specify)
	acceptable for publication with major revisions (please specify)
	rejected (please specify)

Please send your review to: anglicawratislaviensia@gmail.com
 Thank you very much for your cooperation,
 Ewa Kębłowska-Ławniczak

Part Two

Review:
Recommendation: The paper is	acceptable for publication without revisions
	acceptable for publication with minor revisions (please specify)
	acceptable for publication with major revisions (please specify)
	rejected (please specify)

Please send your review to: anglicawratislaviensia@gmail.com
 Thank you very much for your cooperation,
 Ewa Kębłowska-Ławniczak

Paper submission guidelines for Anglica Wratislaviensia

Advice for Authors — Anglica Wratislaviensia

1. Anglica Wratislaviensia welcomes submissions of articles, review articles, and reviews.
2. Articles should be between 4000 and 5000 words in length (including in-text citations, footnotes and references) unless otherwise agreed upon. Review articles should be up to 3000 words. Each article/review article should be preceded by an abstract of up to 200 words and 4–8 keywords. Reviews should be between 1000 and 1200 words (no abstract/keywords required).
3. Articles should be submitted to anglicawratislaviensia@gmail.com, together with a short bionote (ca. 100 words) including name, surname, affiliation, email address and postal address (postal address for editorial use only), and with a scan of a signed Statement of Originality (to be downloaded from the section of Documents for Downloading).
4. On the first page of the article, information about the Author should be placed in the upper left corner and include the following:
 - Name and Surname
 - Affiliation: department or any other organizational unit
 - University or any other academic organization and country
 - Independent researchers should give the name of the sponsoring agency or the lab they have accessed, the country where the research has been conducted, the country of their residence.
5. MLA style coupled with the requirements listed below should be used throughout the paper. A major failure to comply with this specification will cause an automatic rejection of the manuscript.
6. The number of footnotes should be kept to a minimum. For citing sources, in-text citations should be used.
7. Italics (and not underlining) should be used for titles of larger works, and double quotation marks for titles of shorter works.
8. Punctuation, unless part of the quotation, should be placed outside quotation marks.
9. For terminology italics should be used (please do not underline).
10. British spelling conventions should be applied but with -ize endings instead of -ise (e.g., finalize, organize).

Complete guidelines can be downloaded at:

<http://ifa.uni.wroc.pl/anglica-wratislaviensia/documents-for-downloading/publishing-guidelines/?lang=pl>

Articles, together with a bionote (100 words), mailing address, e-mail address and a signed scan of “Statement of Originality,” should be sent to the following e-mail address:

anglicawratislaviensia@gmail.com

Submission to Anglica Wratislaviensia is open. Articles sent by November 15, if accepted for publication, are published the following year and the volume printed in autumn. Online version follows the printed.

Peer review process & publishing procedures

1. Editorial Board reviews submissions for compliance with the profile of the journal and appoints reviewers. Editors may consult the Advisory Board on their decisions. Editors and any editorial staff of the journal treat received manuscripts for review as confidential documents and do not disclose any information about submitted manuscripts to anyone other than the corresponding author, reviewers, other editorial advisers, and the publisher. Manuscripts considered by the Editors to be inappropriate for Anglica Wratislaviensia may be declined without review. Editors of Anglica Wratislaviensia who submit their manuscripts for publication in the journal are subjected to the publishing procedures described above. The reviewers cannot have their work published in the same volume as the one containing the paper/s they have evaluated.
2. All articles, including review articles, are sent to two external reviewers, preferably one from Poland and one from abroad. Reviews are prepared in compliance with the requirements of the double-blind peer review model. Editorial Assistants remove the authors' names and metadata. Reviews have a written form and use the English language. The review template includes a questionnaire as well as an open section where the reviewer may make further suggestions. The review is concluded with a clear statement of acceptance or rejection.
3. Conflicting opinions. If two conflicting opinions are issued by reviewers, the article is declined. However, its author may apply to the Board of Editors to have the article reviewed by a third referee. His/her opinion is decisive.
4. Articles accepted for publication are sent to the authors who introduce necessary changes. Any difference of opinion is resolved by the Editorial Board which is entitled to the final decision. The recommendations of reviewers are advisory to the Editors, who accept full responsibility for decisions about manuscripts. The author may be asked to write a reply to the reviewer's comments.
5. Revised Manuscripts. When a revision is requested after peer review, the authors must return the revised manuscript promptly: 14 days is allotted for minor revisions of Articles, 30 days for major revisions of Articles. After the allotted time, a revised manuscript will be handled as a new submission and will be given a new receipt date.
6. Articles accepted for publication are sent to language editors and technical editors at the University Publisher's.
7. The list of reviewers is published on the periodical's homepage six months after publication.